Performance Commentary

- Our better performing stocks for the month include Atomo Diagnostics (+54.5%), MadPaws Holdings (+35.3%), DGL Group (+22.9%), Aussie Broadband (+22.3%), Emerald Resources (+20.0%) and Mach7 Technologies (+12.9%).
- Stocks that declined for the month include Lumos Diagnostics (-28.0%), Resonance Health (-21.7%), DUG Technology (-15.4%), Big River Gold (-14.5%) Capricorn Metals (-13.7%) and Raiz Invest (-11.6%).

The Fund decreased by 0.52% in September, under-performing its benchmark the S&P/ASX Emerging Companies Accumulation Index, which gained 7.72%. For the rolling twelve months, the Fund has increased by 37.42% after fees, compared to the S&P/ASX Emerging Companies Accumulation Index, which has gained 55.90%.

Our portfolio recorded a small decrease for September, outperforming the broader share market indices, which also declined, but struggled to match the strong gains of the S&P/ASX Emerging Companies Accumulation Index, which has a very large resources exposure - greater than 40%, and was dominated until an index rebalance late in September by some large companies, including several lithium stocks that have surged in recent months on the back of expected increased demand for electric vehicle battery metals.

As we wrote last month, we think in the short-term, the character of the stock market has changed after the large gains over the last 18 months, and we are now in a correction phase. While the prospect of rising inflation and interest rates, and reduced liquidity, is the biggest threat to advancing share markets, an increasing wall of worries has emerged over the last month. These include tapering of bond market purchases by the US Federal Reserve, US debt ceiling negotiations, the collapse of China property developer Evergrande and the fear of contagion into other property companies and sectors of the Chinese economy, and an energy crisis driven by fuel shortages and supply chain disruptions. Together, these signal a return to 1970's type economic stagflation - low growth and high inflation.

For Australia, as the economy is opening up after lockdowns cease, we expect to see a strong bounce back in growth. However, there is continued business uncertainty with the end of government support packages. And, the Reserve Bank of Australia has now signalled a stricter test for home loan serviceability to avoid an overheating housing market, which may dampen credit growth. Long-term, however, our view remains favourable for equity markets with low interest rates and large fiscal deficits, and we expect renewed investor buying and a higher stock market next year.
